NEW YORK, June 8.—Daniel Cushman, chauffeur for Albert McLean, a member of the firm of Waterman & Company, bankers and brokers at No. 68 Exchange place, is in Dobb's Ferry Hospital so badly injured that the doctors say he will die. He was Cush's friend, Daniel Densom of No. 108 Morningside avenue, is in Dobbs Ferry jail, charged with attempted abduction. He has many cuts and bruises about the head and body. The police are holding him on charges made by the two girls.

"The men represented," Miss Jacobs told the police, "that they would take us for a short spin in the park and that we would be at home early. Instead of that Cushman put on all possible speed and shot up Broadway. Before we knew it we had reached the open country.

"Both of us insisted on being taken some, but the men atop us in the machine and they took us way up the Hudson River. Then we became so frightened that we screamed.

"Then the men told us that if we screamed they would shoot us, and both of them drew their revolvers and pointed them at us. We were almost paralyzed with fright."

"I don't know how fast we were going, but I saw the rear end of a wagon in front of us and screamed. Instantly Cushman stuck the revolver into my side and cursed me. The next instant there was a terrific crash of us and screamed. Instantly Cusi struck the revolver into my side and cursed me. The next instant there was a terrific crash and I did not know anything until they got me to the hospital at Dobbs Ferry."

POSTAGE FOR GOOD PRIZES

There are as many different views of "Coke at First Sight" as there are people on the beach. Scores of readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN entered the contest, trying to solve the problem of rapid fire. Prizes in gold and foreign-currency prizes will reward them.

In "The Traveling Bachelor," playing at the Park Theatre, the problem presented itself with a love match begun in a lonely station where the hero has been marooned and where the heroine is required to manage the telegraph instrument all Christmas day, come out happy in the end. The hero and the heroine fall in love at first sight. They became engaged. They marry. What happens afterwards? Would it have been better if they had stayed to consider and reflect?

This problem has occurred to everybody in every day life. Love at first sight is as old as the hills. Few have married. Many have been conquered by it. Others have repented, their reason to guide them.

The unmarried women who have answered the contest have shown a variety of views. The unmarried men who have written on the subject are almost to a man, that marriage in the love at first sight theory. But there is a lot to be said for the married writers who, at least at first sight direct their marriage endorses the proper heart and body. They work hard.

Write your opinion in 150 words or less on the subject of "Coke at First Sight." The list of winners will be published in next BOSTON AMERICAN.

$25,000,000 GIVEN FOR PERS. SAGE

NEW YORK, June 7.—It is known here today that less than three years ago Mrs. Russell Sage has spent more than $25,000,000 for public purposes and the benefit of mankind. The recent investigation showed that the question of working men's insurance and the establishment of a dignified employment bureau call attention to her profile beauty.

It took Russell Sage thirty years to amass $6,000,000. This great sum represented the pinching and scraping together of what amounted to $100 a day for the lifetime of the active business. Mrs. Sage is now giving away the fortune at the rate of $25,000 a day. If the widow continues her charities at the pace she has set all will be gone in five years.

Comparison of the daughter's power to make money with Mrs. Sage's faculty of giving it away shows that the latter is giving away $2 in the same time that it took Mrs. Sage to accumulate the former.

Large as Mrs. Russell Sage's fortune is, it is not the only one in the city of New York. It is the largest in the world. The $10,000,000 Russell Sage Foundation, when added to the $10,000,000 of the widow of the great financier, constitutes a great insurance for American workmen.

But with funds from the Sage foundation, she has conducted a careful study of the insurance of working men. She has found that the insurance of working men is not as good as it should be. She has found that the insurance of working men is not as good as it should be. She has found that the insurance of working men is not as good as it should be.

Prohibition Is NOT
Temperance

And the Prohibitionist, Trying to COERCE, Works Unwisely

It is because we realize the harm done by drunkenness, the danger of WHISKEY DRINKING that we deplore the earnest, sincere, well-meant, BUT HARMFUL, efforts of the prohibitionist.

Temperance will never come from prohibition, from the attempts of a minority to coerce a majority of the people.

The truly temperate man is the man who controls himself, not the man who is controlled by somebody else, not the man COMPELLED by a law-making minority to do what he ought to do.

For many years the world has grown gradually more temperate, drunkenness has gradually diminished. Less than two hundred years ago, drunkenness was not only tolerated, but rather admired among the greatest men, the directors of governments. Now it is tolerated NO-WHERE, AND ONLY FITTED IN THE GUTTER.

With this wonderful change for the better prohibition has had nothing whatever to do. Maine, the prohibition State, suffers from drunkenness, from the effects of poisonous drink, highly charged with alcohol, more perhaps than any State in the Union. Maine, the prohibition State, is cursed with a great body of secret drunkards, BECAUSE TEMPERATE, OPEN DRINKING OF MILD BEVERAGES IS PREVENTED BY LAW, and whiskey drinking is made compulsive and encouraged. Prohibition must have that effect everywhere.

It is painful to say anything that might offend or discourage the earnest prohibitionist. There are no better men or women living than those sincerely trying to help their fellow creatures and to discourage excessive drink.

But, if the man who now tries to encourage temperance by force and prohibition is sincere, so was the man sincere who once tried to make people religious by the rack and the thumbcrew and other violent measures.

It is necessary to talk frankly on the question of prohibition. The temperate nations are the nations that DRINK THE MILD BEVERAGES, THE LIGHT NATURAL WINES AND BEERS. The intemperate nations are the nations that DRINK THE FIERY SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS—WHISKEY, GIN, BRANDY, VODKA.

Prohibition MEANS well, but it drives out by law the bulky light, harmless drinks of temperate people, wines and beers. It compels men WHO WILL DRINK to take the whiskies and gin, the concentrated poisonous stimulants easily hidden and of which a small amount produces drunkenness.

In Maine, per capita, there is ten times more drunkenness than there is in France. In Maine, prohibition rules and the law says that no man shall buy ANYTHING to drink. In France, there exists TEMPERANCE, and no prohibition. The French government in public placards, and by education at government expense, denounces the use of highly alcoholic drinks. AND IT ENCOURAGES AND EVEN SUBSIDIZES THE PRODUCTION AND THE SALE OF LIGHT NATURAL WINES.

If to-morrow you should establish prohibition in France, if you forbade the public selling of light, harmless stimulants that the people have always taken, AND ALWAYS WILL TAKE, you would drive out the use of the light wines that produce a temperate race, and you would compel the use of whiskies, GIN AND OTHER POISONS THAT PRODUCE DRUNKENNESS.

So it is in Germany, where all the people, from time immemorial, have been temperate drinkers of light wholesome beers, with a very small percentage of alcohol. There is infinitely less drunkenness in Germany, where prohibition is never heard of, than in Maine or in Kansas, our two most distinguished prohibition States. There is infinitely less drunkenness, less crime and disorder due to drink in Germany, France or Italy, where the people are temperate and where everybody drinks the really temperate drinks, than in any one of our Southern States recently devoted to prohibition.

Prohibition in Germany would mean driving out harmless beers which do not lead to intoxication. But prohibition would NOT stop men from drinking. It would compel them to give up the beer, which cannot well be hidden, and replace it with schnapps, the German substitute for our health destroying and mind-destroying whiskey.

We invite our readers all over the country to think over this question of prohibition in the light of common sense. We advise every man who can do so, TO WORK AND LIVE WITHOUT DRINKING. There is no doubt, whatever, that INDIVIDUAL totalism leads to good results in business, to a more prosperous career. But history proves that totalism is fatal to a race. Examples, India and Turkey. While a man is temperate himself, and if he chooses leading the life of a totalist, he ought to realize that he has no right to FORCE HIS WILL upon another. He ought to read history intelligently, to study other countries intelligently, and know that THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS REAL TEMPERANCE BASED UPON PROHIBITION.

Lawmakers in the United States and public opinion in the United States should condemn the use of the strong, poisonous, highly alcoholic drinks, penalizing with high license or otherwise, the use of such drinks. And public opinion, common sense, and the law should not only permit but encourage the sale, in decent resorts under decent conditions, of the natural light wines and beers that mean real temperance.

This is the lesson that history teaches, with NO EXCEPTION WHATSOEVER. And this will be ultimately the solution of the drink problem in this country.
